BACKSTAGE NOTES

DIRECTOR DON FURMAN needs no introduction to theatregoers, having directed, acted, worked in numerous capacities, including set construction for many, many years.

STAGE MANAGER MARY CUBBAGE has also served in this post and in other jobs for a number of productions.

JEAN MAYE, faithful backstage worker last year, is making her debut before the footlights in this show. She is the wife of Joe Maye and they have two teenage sons.

BOB CHAPMAN'S face is now a familiar one to playgoers from "Show Boat," "Importance of Being Earnest" and "Come, Blow Your Horn" appearances. Two of his sons are also actors and his wife, Gerri, works backstage.

JIM BAUER is making his stage debut in this play but has helped backstage in past seasons.

MARY LOUISE QUINCY has been active in the theatre for many years in many ways, particularly as writer of "Backstage" newspaper column. As an actress she was last seen briefly in "Come, Blow Your Horn."

JOE LOGAN says "Bell, Book and Candle" will be his "first time on stage since the second grade." A USC graduate, he is now teaching here.
